A two-story house with a light-colored facade and dark shutters on the windows. The entire front of the house is covered in metal scaffolding. A red sign is attached to the scaffolding on the left side. The house has a central wooden double door with a small window above it, and a set of concrete steps leading up to the door. To the right of the door, there is a red and white striped warning sign. A black trash bin with a yellow lid is visible on the right side of the house. The ground in front of the house is covered with gravel and some debris.
